HUNDRED TENTH BOYS AGAIN IN CIVILIAN GARB; HAVEN'T MUCH TO SAY ABOUT EXPLOITS

Story of Death Wound of Lloyd J. Shaw, Medical Detachment, Related.

WALTER BIXLER SAVES HIM

With Hip Shattered by Shell, German Brute Was Ready to Drive Bayonet Through Him When Comrade Interfered; Air Raid the Worst Trial.

More boys of the 110th Infantry, 24th Pennsylvania Division, are still drifting in, some coming in scattered groups and others singly. The majority of the men reside in the outlying districts, just passing through this city while making connections for their homes.

Four more members of the 110th Medical Detachment arrived home yesterday. Major Robert S. McKee of the West Side, who stopped off in Washington on Saturday to visit his daughter, Edith, arrived on Train No.
9 yesterday morning. He was accompanied by his daughter, who returned last night.

The other three medical unit men who returned were "Jimnie" Darr, Dewey Miller and Oliver P. Moser.
They came together on Baltimore & Ohio Train No. 15 at 4:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Darr had gone to New York after being discharged.
Moser stopped off in Washington and Miller at Cumberland.

All the men are looking fine, and went at once to their homes where they were visited throughout the evening by friends.

None of those who returned with the 110th has much to say concerning the fighting over there. Practically every local boy who arrived home Saturday is in his civilian clothes already and is preparing to take his place where he left off when he went to Europe to wage war against the Hun.

Walter Bixler, a son of City Clerk A. O. Bixler, who was captured, together with three others in the first engagement, has nothing to say concerning his treatment. His brothers at arms, however, declare Bixler is the one man in the regiment who knows just what Germans are, how mean they treated their prisoners, and the conditions which were imposed on the Allied men captured.

When captured Bixler was wounded but he has fully recovered from this. He was with Lloyd Shaw at the time of his capture. Shaw had been badly wounded by a shell, the hip being fractured. Bixler dressed the wound as best he could with what materials he had on hand. He and another man attempted to carry Shaw off but the pain was too great. They were then surrounded by Germans and one man wanted to finish Shaw with his bayonet. Bixler persuaded him to spare Shaw, pointing to the Red Cross on his arm. Bixler was then forced to attend to the German wounded. He did not see Shaw again, the latter being taken to prison hospital at Metz.

Frank Freeman, who was also captured, was about three quarters of a mile away from Shaw and Bixler when taken prisoner. Frank Beatty of Fairchance was the other hospital man taken prisoner.

Freeman and Beatty received fairly good treatment at the German hands. They have little to say regarding their experiences in the prison camps.

The returned prisoners tell of the poor rations they received, but state the German soldier got practically the same thing. The bread given them is described as being as black as "devil cake with sawdust in it." Even this kind of bread was precious in Germany and if a prisoner could not eat it he dared not throw it away without endangering his life. Members of the 110th say at times when they would capture some of the Hun supplies they would find the same kind of bread. In the first line trenches only did the German get the best.

Beatty and Freeman were in prison camps where Red Cross supplies were received by them, but at Bixler's camp the boxes, sent by the Red Cross and addressed to the boys were often received empty, having been robbed in transit.

Every member of the company in telling of his experiences describes the night spent in the woods under an airplane bombardment as the worst in the whole war. On this night only one machine flew up the valley occupied by the 110th. Five bombs were dropped, four of them exploding. One of the bombs fell in the fourth platoon of Company D. It was here the company suffered a heavy loss. There were 12 killed and 20 wounded.

The night was pitch dark and it was not permissible to strike a match. To take care of the wounded it was necessary to crawl around on the ground and follow up the groans. If a man did not groan he was not found. The wounds had to be dressed in the dark and the men carried several hundred yards on litters to the ambulances which could not get clear up to the company.

One of the bombs, according to the boys, did not explode. It buried itself

GREATEST EXCURSION ON RECORD IS THAT OF B. & O. TO WASHINGTON

Over 7,000 Persons, More Than 500 of Them from Connellsville, Visit National Capital Sunday.

What is declared to be the largest excursion on record was that run by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company from Pittsburgh to Washington Saturday night, tickets being sold at points as far south as Cumberland.
All told 7,134 persons were carried to the capital and back on eight special trains.

Pine hundred three tickets were sold in Connellsville and four to five hundred persons were turned away after Agent R. E. Shaw received notice at 9 o'clock to discontinue selling tickets. It was not necessary to redeem any tickets here. In Pittsburg 2,000 persons were unable to get accommodations and several hundred tickets were redeemed.

The excursion was the first since the lifting of war restrictions. The rate was $3.75 from Connellsville, including the war tax. The excursionists were given an entire day—from 6 in the morning to 9 at night—at the capital.

To First Class Private Robert J.
Keffer of Company D whose comrades call him "Gander," fell the "honor"

Huns, a nephew of the former Kaiser.
The son of the Imperial family wore a moccasin and the American had lots of fun at his expense.

Keffer, looking like a general, his comrades say, rode a horse at the head of the line of prisoners, variously estimated at 50 to 100. In the rear marched a private.

Solicitors, Commanded by General Frank A. Tarr; Will Celebrate.

The drive for members of the Y. M.
C. A. at Dickerson Run reached a glorious finish Saturday evening when a total of 504 memberships was reported by General Frank A. Tarr of the Army and Admiral Harry J. Bell of the Navy, bringing the total membership for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie organization there up to approximately 1700 and placing it second only to the Hazelton "Y" in numbers. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie considered.
Assigned a quota of 165 Dickerson Run came through with more than twice that number and, it is believed, established a record in the country-wide campaign.

Of the members enrolled 422 were new and 82 renewals. Twenty-five are sustaining members, the remainder straight adult. Heretofore the association at this point has not had sustaining members.

Admiral Bell had a slight margin Perry Township Estate.

In the estate of Johnson S. Moss of Perry township Judge J. C. Work this morning refused a $350 claim of Ina Moss, executrix of the will, cutting it to $75, declaring that the way the executrix handled the estate negatived the claim. A claim of the widow for $347.49 was allowed.

In the estate of William J. Ward of Perry township, an order for distribution of the balance, $1,742.61, was

$400 IS ADDED BY LOCAL METHODISTS TO CENTENARY FUND

Making the Total $40,700, With More to Be Secured Today.

$700,000 IS YET NEEDED

To Put the Pittsburgh Conference Over the Top; Remote Districts Have Not Reported; Pittsburg Area Total Is $6,100,000; Effort Continues Today.

The receipt yesterday of an additional $400 increased the subscriptions of the members of the Methodist Episcopal church to $40,700 as their share in the centenary drive. The campaign officially started yesterday but it is expected that still other subscriptions will be made which, in the aggregate, will exceed the quota of $27,100 by considerably more than 50 per cent.

E. W. Horner, campaign manager for the McKeesport district outside of Allegheny county, received information this morning that official reports showed his district to have subscribed $276,000. The quota of Mr.
Horner's district is $488,000. There are a number of churches in the more remote districts, and even some near at home, from which reports have not yet been received, and very few if any of the districts, have complete reports and will not be able to make them for several days.

Uniontown reported $42,000 with $3,000 or more yet to be turned in.
Scottdale with $44,144 in its credit was safely over the top. Dawson, true to Dawson habit, exceeded its quota by more than 50 per cent. Up to last night the total $650,000 was $27-456. Mount Pleasant and Meyersdale will reach their allotment but no figures are at hand to show just what has been done.

In the Pittsburgh conference as a whole there remains less than three-quarters of a million to be secured or reported before the objective of the drive has been reached. In a telegram received by Mr. Horner this morning W. R. McCord, campaign director of the Pittsburgh area, said:

"Midnight figures show the Pittsburg conference has $700,000 yet to go before reaching its quota of $3,840-000,000.

"Just one more day of pressure on your local leaders and we win. Conference totals at midnight are: Erie conference, $1,871,000, against quota of $2,085,000. Pittsburgh conference, $3,144,000 against quota of $3,840-000. West Virginia conference, $1,174-000 against a quota of $1,584,000.

"By districts, Pittsburgh and Allegheny county, special district $1,834-000. Beaver Valley group of Allegheny district, $178,000. McKeesport district, outside of Allegheny county, $278,000. Blairsville district, $477-000. Washington district, outside of Allegheny county, $298,000. We are promising New York $7,000,000 by Monday night. If a consistent effort is made in every district to put pressure on backward and discouraged charges on Monday we will pass the area quota in our Tuesday reports.

Persistent check on your local leaders all day Monday absolutely essential to victory."

SERVICES APPRECIATED

Warm Letter From Victory Loan Committee Comes to Local Soldier.

During the Victory-Liberty Loan drive soldiers at Parkview hospital, Pittsburg, were enlisted as speakers in the interest of the work, among them being Sergeant Wilbert M. Still-wagon of Connellsville, a member of Company D. He spoke every day for three weeks, accompanying members of the Victory Loan Speakers' committee in automobiles. In recognition of his work the committee sent him the following letter:

"On behalf of the Victory Loan Speakers' committee I take great pleasure in extending to you the committee's sincere thanks for your full and complete cooperation in connection with the activities pertaining to the Victory Loan just closed.

"Your assistance is appreciated beyond measure and the committee therefore wants you to have this letter as a testimony of its appreciation of the good work accomplished by cordial and very willing cooperation."

The letter is signed by Alexander Duncan, secretary of the committee.

BUSY TIMES ARE IN PROSPECT AT THE SLIGO PLANT

Big Orders Are on Hands and Still More Business is in Sight.

MILL BEING REMODELED

And Repaired Throughout in Preparation For Resumption in About Two Weeks; Joseph McConnell, General Sales Agent For Eastern Districts.

With the developments under way and the business that has been secured and is in sight, Sligo promises to become one of the busiest iron plants in the country. The company was the lowest bidder and will shortly be awarded the contract for furnishing the government with 5,000,000 pounds of chain iron for Navy use. This business will be placed by the government within the next few weeks at the rate of 500 tons per month. In addition to this orders have been secured from other chain manufacturers for 1,000 tons of chain iron per month for a period of six months. These two items alone will mean steady operation of the plant for a long period.
"Sligo" iron has long had the preference in the Navy for the manufacture of anchor chains.

The action of the Railroad Administration in placing orders for 200,000 tons of steel rails is understood to be merely the beginning of large orders by the government, it being estimated that these will reach a total of more than 1,000,000 tons of iron and steel within a very short time, in which Sligo is expected to share.

J. E. Olson has been appointed works manager and August Landefeld works superintendent. Both are skilled and experienced iron and steel men.
Up-to-date methods are being applied to the management of the plant with the result that output will be enlarged and steady operation assured as soon as repairs now in progress have been completed.

The Federal Export company of 42 Broadway, New York, through which the output of the plant is marketed, has retained the services of Joseph McConnell who has been associated with the Sligo Iron & Steel company for many years. Mr. McConnell has been appointed general sales manager for the Philadelphia and eastern districts. For the present he is making his headquarters in New York. Mr.
McConnell's family expects to join him in the east shortly after the graduation of his son, Joseph A. McConnell, who is a member of the senior class of the high school.

The plant will not be in operation this week due to the fact that it has been closed down for remodeling and a complete overhauling throughout.
New furnaces are being built and new stacks erected and all necessary repairs made so that the plant will be in the best possible shape for resumption in full in about two weeks.

HAWKER AND GRIEVE SAFE; PICKED UP IN MID-ATLANTIC OCEAN

Failure of Engine Compels Aviators to Alight; in Water Only 80 Minutes.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, May 26.—Harry G. Hawker and his navigator, Lieutenant Commander MacKenzie Grieve, the two British aviators, who started Sunday, May 18, in an attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean from St.
Johns, Newfoundland, have been picked up at sea, in perfect health.

Missing for six days and virtually given up for lost, Hawker and Grieve, who essayed the flight without protection against disaster save what their frail airplane afforded, are safe aboard a British warship off the Orneys.
They were expected to reach the mainland today.

Some 1,100 miles out from Newfoundland and 800 miles from the Irish coast, on Monday, May 19, the aviators, making the best of an engine which was failing to function properly, were forced to alight on the water.
The little Danish steamer Mary, bound from New Orleans and Norfolk for Aarhus, Denmark, picked the way-farers up and continued on her northern voyage. They were in the water an hour and a half before being rescued.

Lacking a wireless outfit, the captain of the ship was obliged to wait until the good tidings of the rescue until he was opposite Butt of Lewis, where the information was signalled, by means of flags, that Hawker and Grieve were aboard his ship.

Immediately word was flashed to the British Admiralty, which sent out destroyers to overtake the Danish vessel and obtain information. This was done and one of the destroyers took the aviators off and transferred them to the flagship Revenge.

From this safe haven Hawker sent a message that his machine had stopped, owing to the blocking of the water circulation system.

ing weather forecasts of yesterday Admiral Jackson of Ponta Del-gada this morning called the Navy Department that the naval seaplane NC 4 still was held at her mooring by unfavorable flight conditions.

W. N. LECHÉ BUYS APARTMENT HOUSE AT ST. PETERSBURG

Local Merchant is Not at Present Planning to Locate in South, He Tells The Courier.

By a deal closed recently W. N.
Leche, Connellsville business man, has acquired a three-story apartment building at St. Petersburg, Fla., the winter resort of a considerable number of Connellsville people. The building, a concrete structure, contains 12 apartments and is occupied by pleasure seekers from the North. Mr. Salman, a sister of Miss Elizabeth J.
Freese of this city, who is now in Florida, is in charge.

That the investment is a good one is evidenced by the fact that each of the 12 apartments rents for $250 for the season, which opens about December 1 and closes May 1. There were reports Mr. Leche intended locating permanently in the South. He has no such thought in mind at this time, he said. He will probably be a regular in the Connellsville colony during the winters, however.

HUNDRED TENTH BOYS AGAIN IN CIVILIAN GARB.

In the ground with the exception of its tail. Had it gone off they say 50 more men would likely have been killed or injured. The 110th might have been wiped out, the doughboys say, if three or four machines instead of one had been sent over by the Germans. The single plane flew up the valley in a zigzag fashion dropping a bomb on each side. It was one of the latter that fell amid Company D.

One man, telling of the bomb that struck the Conneltsville company, said he was only about 200 feet away from where it hit. "I was stretched out on the ground," he said, "so that a cigarette paper would have made a parapet for me." "Peculiar cases of where men lying together would be struck, leaving a man in between them unharmed, are told.

Speaking of the American fire in dropping a barrage one soldier told of the desire of a German officer to see "those machine gun cannon." The prisoner said the Yanks could do as they pleased with him if they would only let him have a single look at those automatic cannon. Believing the rapidly with which the Americans fired their guns was a new invention for firing cannon after the manner in which a machine gun was operated.

One local member of Company D who has not yet returned from Camp Dix is Tony Cavalcante. He is reported as having been removed to the convalescent hospital there after marching in the parade at Philadelphia.

Another Company D boy who did not come home with the company is David R. King. He was placed in a post office after being discharged from a hospital in France. It has since been learned that the post office unit has been disbanded. Where King is located at present is not exactly known.

referring to what they did during the days that tried their souls in France.

After meeting their friends, first desire was to don civilian clothes, signifying that they wished nothing quite so much as to put behind them as far as possible all that would remind them of war and the unpleasant remembrances of it. While friends have an interest in hearing accounts of the experiences these boys have had, the boys themselves much prefer to hear about the happenings at home since they left the old town almost two years ago. They are tired of war and all that it obliged them to suffer and endure and they want, just now to avoid incidents that will tend to keep the memories of the past eleven months fresh in their minds.

Like their gallant and modest colonels the boys make no claim to having won the war single handed and alone. That they had a part in it, and played that part as well as they knew how to do so about all they are willing to admit and, if allowed their own preference, they will not even talk about that. They have finished their job and have come back home to tackle another and, as they view it, one quite as important—that of taking up the duties and obligations of citizenship. To these duties and obligations they will direct their energies and attention and we may be assured it will be done with the same strict adherence to high ideals and fidelity to duty as they followed the flag. In this respect they are going to furnish the rest of us as fine an object lesson as they have already given in their unselfish loyalty and devotion to the flag.

TO STOP AUTO STEALING.

The stealing of automobiles has assumed such proportions, and the activity has been followed up with such boldness in many sections that it is realized more stringent measures must be taken to make the path of the automobile thief a much more difficult one.

For this purpose sev-ral bills have been introduced in the Legislature.
One, the Hollingsworth bill, making it a felony to steal a car, has already been approved. Another, known as the Cox bill, hedges the sale of second-hand cars about with such restrictions and regulations as will make it difficult to dispose of cars that have not been acquired in a legitimate manner.

This bill provides that no second hand car can be registered until the Highway Department officials are given proof of sale including a sworn statement by the seller, accompanied by a complete description with data regarding date of purchase and a record of any alterations made including painting. These statements must be filed with the Highway Department together with the registration fee of $10 and with the chief of police of the city where the car is owned, or the authorities of a borough or clerk of court, according to residence of the car. The bill makes it also unlawful to have a car from which the manufacturer's number and other distinguishing marks have been removed, while garage keepers must keep records of cars left for repairs or temporary storage. They are also required to give notice of any car without a manufacturer's number heavy fines for violation are provided.

The enactment of this bill into a law which is now being urged upon the Senate, ought to prove a very effective means of destroying the relations now existing between dishonest dealers in second-hand cars and motor thieves with whom they are often in league. If this can be accomplished, and the law making stealing of automobiles a felony rigidly enforced, car owners will be afforded a degree of protection that will make the legitimate possession of a car much less a hazard than at present. Incidentally a number of persons will be obliged to follow an honest livelihood who now find the theft of machines a more or less lucrative business.

It is "bands across the sea" today to the intrepid Arctic explorer and his navigator over their fortunate escape from an unsuccessful effort to make it "planes across the sea."

The economy of government control of the railroad is a striking proof in the request of Director General Hines for an appropriation of $1,000-000 to bridge the gap between receipts and expenditures. From the state of the sum one would think the purchase of the roads was being planned.

At last the Huns admit responsibility for the violation of the neutrality of Belgium, but too late to save the terms of the peace treaty.

The weatherman promises to taper off gradually during this week by general us occasional showers. Why occasional?

Memorial Day as it Was, Oregon Journal.

Why make Memorial Day a joy day?
That is what we are gradually doing. There are announcements everywhere of sports and merry makings and glad rag jublations on Memorial Day.

Why make the day, set aside for honors to our dead a day of feasting play pastime and festival?

Some women in New York are making it the occasion of a big horse parade. Is that the day to select for pageantry and displays and rich attire and gala functioning?

Forty states recognize Memorial Day as the national Sabbath of patriotism and the one day of the year on which to respect the fallen. It is the day on which all America has come to think of its dead.

The day had its origin in 2,500,000 men who went away and only a little over half came back. The others rest where they wanted and lie where they fell.

The idea lodged in the hearts of all Americans and it has been solemnized in statute and story. The nation learned to turn its footsteps to the places where the dead lie and there in quiet reverie renew the faculty of the living to those who are no more.

There are new dead now in the old old cases. There are 60,000 new re-sons over in France to rehabilitate the day with our respect and reverence.
There are new martyrs whose returning comrades crippled and uncrippled hope to see them honored with seemly mindfulness on this one day in the long year.

It should be ours to maintain the spirit of Decoration Day as it was and not as it is made to be by some.

The Lake Bird Gets Its Worms Digging.

Liberty No Advance.

W. F. Norton has a pet robin at his home which follows him into the garden and hops on his nose and keeps pecking at it until Mr. Norton digs into a lot of worms. At first Will thought it just did it inadvertently but after the bird had repeated the performance several days in succession he found out what was wanted and now it is one of his tasks to dig worms for the robin twice daily.

Huns Will Evade
Treaty of Peace

Frank H. Simonds in Pittsburgh Gas-ette Times Copyright by Mc-Clure Newspaper Syndicate

Berhardi was right when he told his countrymen that "our next war will be for world power or downfall." This is a fact, which slowly very slowly is penetrating the German mind and is revealed alike in German propaganda and German official communications. In the last few days since the peace terms were delivered, there has been unfolding a wonderful picture of the German mind.

It is now perfectly clear that German policy had two divisions: There was the possibility of military victory held firmly up to July 18 of last year, in which case the German terms were to be of the stiffest, including huge territorial annexations and stupendous indemnities. In the second place, if the war were not won then, through the skillful use of Mr. Wilson and his fourteen points Germany was to escape serious consequences from defeat and having crippled British shipping and smashed French and Belgian industry, resume her old place in the world.

Today every German utterance indicates an enormous disillusionment in the matter of President Wilson. The Germans believed that he would save them. They regarded him as an ally.
They were accordingly stunned when they read the terms of peace signed by Mr. Wilson, which carried with them a dated sentence to all their hopes. For the first time the German was seized with a fear that he might lose the war after all.

The smallest examination of the German utterances since that time indicates that the "President of the United States has become the center of German demoralization exactly as England was the center in the early days of the war. Great Britain betrayed Germany, so the old Hun propaganda ran, by entering the war. The United States has betrayed Germany by cooperating with the Allies in framing the present treaty of peace, they say now.

The actual signing of the treaty of peace by Germany is of relatively less importance than it would seem. Whether he sign or not, the German means to evade. He means to continue to compel the Allies to maintain armies in Germany. He will outbide and resist the application of every provision in the treaty of peace and he hopes that the alliance will ultimately disintegrate before he has been forced to comply with the terms of the treaty of peace. It is clear then, that we have not reached a settlement in Europe. It is plain that no settlement with Germany was possible, because the German now as at all times, declines the responsibility for the past and intends to avoid obligations in the future. His mentality remains incomprehensible, his purpose menacing, his signature worthless.

A past master at propaganda, free once more to resume the type of campaign familiar to all Americans, the same Germans who a year ago were outbidding a peace of violence pursuing anything in modern history are now endeavoring to create public sentiment against the Allied peace terms in Allied countries by contrasting these terms with their own interpretation of President Wilson's 14 points. When they were victorious these Germans frankly affirmed their purpose to annex all of Northern France. Now that they are defeated they are proclaiming to the whole world the hypocrisy of the Allies in

Just Folks

BEAR A GUESS.

WHAT WE DON'T KNOW.

We know when we were knee deep in trouble. We know when we were suffering pain.

We know right away an hour of the day when we were reason to growl and complain.

We know when the fates are against us. We know when we were losing a fight.

But we don't seem to know as the days come and go when everything's really all right.

We can talk of our ailments quite glibly. We can tell all our friends of our woes.

There isn't man but with faithfulness can describe every burden he knows.

But mighty few know when they're happy and fewer are able to tell with a joy that is real the way that they feel on the days they are perfectly well.

We know all the symbols of sorrow.
We know all the signs of despair.
We know when we're weak and we know how to grumble at care.

But when we have reason for smiling when all of our worries are small.
When the sun's shining bright and our world is all right we don't seem to know it at all.

We value our joys when we've lost them. We have praise for our friends when they're dead.

We can tellingly tell that it's fine to be well when we're flat on a hospital bed.

But we know not when we should be happy with all of our farseeing powers.

You and I must allow that we haven't learned how to appreciate joy when it's ours.

It is always our policy to give every have now. In our men's clothing depart-styles, special designs for young men. Selected boys' clothing, so well made that they look right in spite of the rough usage the youngsters give them. Special styles in straw hats—a complete line of fashionable, attractive caps. Shoes—it would take a whole page of this paper to tell you about our stocks—our shoe bargains, our shoe styles, and the money we can save you. We are not going into details further than to say that there is a great opportunity to get the very best goods at the very lowest prices that the market produces. The stocks are superior, the prices are superior, and you

BAND CONCERT IN AFTERNOON

Day is Wound Up by Dance at the Armory; Shaffer Sample Dies of In-Alleged Horse Thief is Caught.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, May 26.—A rousing reception was tendered the boys of the 110th unit of this place and the surrounding district as they landed in Mount Pleasant on Saturday. Great credit is due Burgess S. P.
Stevens and the members of the Patriotic League, with Charles Engle, chair; T. O. Anderson, secretary, and M. O. Hopwood, treasurer, for the part they took in the celebration. More than three thousand people took part in the parade in the down pour of rain, with bands from Mount Pleasant, Stauffer, Scottsdale and Young-wood and several drum corps taking part. Never for one minute during the downpour did the people leave the street, but waited eagerly in the rain for a glimpse of the battle-scarred veterans.

M. A. King, chief marshal, had one of the best-formed parades in the history of the town and John Miller had an excellent showing of driftees and returned soldiers, sailors and marines.
Gladness did not half express the thanks offered by the boys on all sides for the reception tendered them.

During the afternoon Orrin Zuk's Municipal band gave a concert on the grand stand in front of the United Brethren church, with Miss Marie Detwiler as soloist.

Fully five thousand people were served dinner at the Church street school house and the homes of the neighbors where the tables were carried in and set up. As the boys entered the school house three routing cheers were given for Captain John J. Kennedy who had led the boys to Greensburg and from there to Mount Pleasant and up the street.

In the evening and until 12 o'clock a dance was given at the state armory.
Prof. J. Hunter Gamble's orchestra furnished the music.

LITTLE HOUSE FROCK

There are ovals of rose dotting the whiteness of this fine little frock that softens such dainty ruffles to soften the severity of a Quaker plain bodice.
The shortish sleeves are gathered slightly into a puff which is quite a new fancy for sleeves. The skirt drapes charmingly as only materials of the shrewdest of voiles can do.

Classes will be held in the Baptist church Monday evening, June 2.

CHINESE BASEBALL SCRIBE MAKES USE OF TELESCOPE TO WATCH CLOSE PLAYS

Lee Wong, who formerly covered baseball stories in Hongkong, is now doing the same for a prominent newspaper on the coast. Photo shows him in press box with one of his countrymen. He always uses a telescope so that he can see close plays at the bases. He is a noted authority on baseball.

HERRMANN CAN LEAVE GAME A WEALTHY MAN

Has Been With Major League for Seventeen Years.

Proxy of Cincinnati Reds Easily Can Take More From Pastime Than He Put In It—Was Regarded as Expert in Politics.

Baseball has produced some wealthy citizens among those who entered the game on what might be called the "ground floor," or on a "white check," as they sometimes say in racing circles. One of that clan who could afford to pass up the American pastime, from a financial standpoint, and still have "cookie" money, is Garry Herrmann, proxy of the Cincinnati Reds and "chief justice" of the National commission.

If Herrmann lives and holds his job with the Portville club until next August 9 he will have served 17 years in the toils of a major league. If he decides to leave the game after his 17-year period has expired, he will easily take much more from the game than he put in it, on August 9, 1902.

Herrmann worked in the Cincinnati club when John T. Brush sold the outfit to George D. Cox and Max and Julius Felschman. Herrmann was always anxious to have it said he had contributed a substantial portion of that $150,000 paid to Brush, but some dope which listens exceedingly well places Herrmann in the setting as a representative of Mr. Cox who was early one of Ohio's shrewdest politicians.

The baseball fraternity over the country may not know it, but it is truth just the same. Garry Herrmann was at one time regarded as an expert on Ohio politics. With his oily manners and his ability to make friends, Garry was Cox's right bower. Cox never cared any more for acquiring baseball property than John D. Rockefeller would care for a corn silo factory, but Cox doled out some of his vast wealth for an interest in the Reds to "set" himself with certain parties whose political good will he soon found use for. Garry Herrmann was elected to 1906 after that interest, and Garry really owned considerable of an interest himself. Regardless of his political past, Herrmann is a prince of good fellows on acquaintance and baseball might have many worse men.

ROBERTSON MAY PROVE FIND

Recruit Shortstop of St. Louis Browns Likely to Secure Regular Job on Team.

It is said that Jimmy Burke, the manager of the St. Louis Browns, has discovered a real find in the person of Eugene Robertson, the recruit shortstop from the University of St. Louis. Robertson showed up exceptionally well at the Browns' training camp, and he is likely to become the team's regular shortstop. Robertson is a St. Louis boy and twenty years old. He is built along the lines of Charles Hollocher, the sensational young shortstop of the Chicago Cubs. He is about five feet six inches tall and weighs about 150 pounds.

Lee Meadows, the experienced twirler of the St. Louis Cardinals, has had his tonsils removed since last season and expects to have better health as a result.

TEARNEY IS BUSY MAN

They can't pile too much work on Al Tearney. He is president of the Western league, president of the Three-I league, head of the minors' committee on relations with the majors, and now has been re-elected president of the Chicago Amateur Baseball Managers' association. This is the twentieth year he has held that office.

WHEN WALLY SCHANG BUNTED

Slim Love Knows How It Feels to Expect a Bunt and Have Batter Hit Out Home Run.

"Slim" Love knows the embarrassment that seizes a pitcher who is expecting a bunt and then has the batter cross him with a home run. It happened in a game he was twirling two seasons ago against Boston. The score was close, where one run was much to be desired, and Wally Schang was up with a man on second and none out.

"Put it over there; let him bunt and get out," the infielders were shouting at "Slim."

"Slim" says he did just as he was instructed and came in with the pitch.

Wally Schang.

ready to jump on the bunt with hopes of getting the runner going to third. "The trouble was," Love explained, "that Schang did not do as I had calculated he would. He hit a liner to my left, barely missing me. The ball kept mounting and never stopped until it reached the fence. Before it was returned, Schang had scored."

EXHIBITION GAMES PAY WELL

Final Contest in San Francisco Between Cubs and Seals Drew 10,000 Paid Admissions.

The Chicago Cubs in their exhibition games in California with Coast league clubs drew better attendance than for three years past. They take it to mean revival in baseball interest, but maybe it was because the Coast league teams generally were swatting the Cubs hip and thigh. The final exhibition game in San Francisco between Cubs and Seals drew nearly 10,000 paid admissions.

SOMERSET AVIATOR ON NC 4 IN RECORD-BREAKING FLIGHT, NEWFOUNDLAND TO AZORES

SOMERSET, May 24—Eugene S. Rhoads, son of Mrs. Emma Saylor Rhoads, is the latest Somerset boy to achieve world-wide distinction, as a member of the crew of the NC 4, the first naval seaplane to fly from the United States to the Azores, on its trip to Europe. He is chief machinist's mate.

Eugene Rhoads enlisted in the aviation service six years ago, and if he lives till next August he will observe his 25th birthday anniversary. He is a member of the class known as natural mechanics, and from childhood on has been deeply engrossed in the development of all motor mechanism. His skill as a mechanic was discovered by the pilots of the air shortly after he enlisted, and ever since the War started his services have been in great demand at the various aviation fields. The first knowledge his Somerset relatives and friends received of his selection by Lieutenant Commander H. C. Read as chief machinist's mate of the NC 4 came a few days after the receipt of his letter to his mother through the daily newspapers.

Eugene Rhoads is a son of the late Philip Rhoads, a well-known Somerset stone mason, who died about 19 years ago. His mother lives here and is proud of his part in the achievement. He is a brother of Mrs. William Marteeny and Mrs. A. R. Paul, both of this place. A brother, Philip Rhoads, lives in Pittsburg.

In a luxurious home, but who has developed a sincere admiration for Mary and has been trying to win her favor. One day George and Mary go to a bathing beach. There is a fire and their clothes are burned. Stuart happens along and takes Mary to Rita's home for supper and clothes. Rita, who has been out, returns to find a strange girl wearing her clothes. She protests to Stuart and is ordered from the house. In a spirit of revenge she gets the police to raid the house. Mary, horrified, makes her escape and walks ten miles, in a blinding storm. The sight of her borrowed clothes fills her father's mind with a horrible suspicion and he beats her. The wedding is called off and Mary becomes an object of contempt in the eyes of members of her family. Louise, rather than see the family lose the Weston money, wins the favor of George and gets him to propose. Plans are made for the wedding. Later the wedding is called off when Louise learns that the Weston family is bankrupt and George has no money at all. Mary marries Stuart and the story has a happy ending. A selected comedy is also being shown.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE PARISIAN TIGRESS"—A Metro production in which Viola Dana, the clever star, is seen in a charming role, is today's feature attraction. Miss Dana plays the character of Jeanne, a child of the gutter, who is compelled by a young Apache to dance for his gains in a cafe in the Parisian Latin quarter. Adventures come to the girl when an aristocratic though impoverished artist finds her and conceives the idea of having her impersonate the long lost daughter of his wealthy friend so that he can reap a rich reward. How romance comes to her when the mystery of her birth is cleared and she again enters the sphere of life to which she was born, is cleverly and entertainingly told in a manner which brings both laughter and tears. The production is a powerful romance of the Parisian underworld. The character of the play has a sinister touch which is cleverly lightened by delightful bits of original comedy and also by a beautiful romance. Miss Dana does some of her best work as the little grisette. The whole play imparts an atmosphere of reality which is due to the extreme care taken in every detail by Maxwell Karger, director general of the Metro studios. A selected comedy is also being shown. Tomorrow Earl Williams will be featured in "The Man of Might," a Vitaphone feature.

THE SOISSON.

"BORROWED CLOTHES"—A Jewel production in which Mildred Harris (Mrs. Charlie Chaplin) is seen in a splendid role is being shown today. Miss Harris appears in the role of Mark Kirk, a poor but beautiful girl who gets a proposal of marriage from George Weston, the unmarried partner of the firm for which the girl works as a salesgirl, and accepts him at the urging of her sister, Louise, who believes George wealthy and who sees in such a marriage the prospect of a life of ease for the Kirk family. Mary really loves Stuart Firth, a wealthy young man, who unknown to Mary has been maintaining Rita Morris, a vampire woman.

DIAMOND NOTES

Mike Regan is doing good work for the Reds.

Carl Mays never was in better trim in his life than right now.

Herb Hall, the Kansas City pitcher, is suffering from a bad arm.

Baseball pools will not be allowed to operate in Cleveland this season.

Charley Herzog, who holds a $10,000 contract with the Boston Braves, would like to play with the New York Yankees. If it was a matter of choice.

Among ball players arriving from France recently was Ray Bates, the third baseman of the Athletics. He was in the artillery and saw some real service.

Rollie Zelder, finally realizing his ambition to become a minor league manager, sure has picked out a tough assignment when he takes the job at Toledo.

ALL HONOR TO OUR HEROIC DEAD

Many soldiers of our own time and kindred are sleeping their last long sleep away over the seas.

Let us resolve that the victories they won shall not have been in vain, that we shall remain forever true to the ideals for which they laid down their lives—Liberty and justice throughout the whole world.

CHAPTER II.

Abduction.

The hacienda where Antonio de la Guerra had lived for the fifty-odd years of his exile from his beloved Spain, where his granddaughter had been born and reared, was one of the landmarks which linger on in stately white walls under dark red tiles from the time of the Spanish occupation.

The old Spaniard was overlord of what had once been a grant from his grandfather's king, the boundaries carelessly marked in leagues instead of miles.

He bred cattle and fine horses, entrusted Gaucho Morales, his foreman, with the business details, and yet managed, so large and fertile was his empire, to go on from year to year swelling his wealth.

The wide-verandahed house with none of its walls less than three feet thick, with great, spacious rooms, spread out across a wide extent of the shaded land among the olive and pear and pepper trees. In the time of the father of Antonio de la Guerra there had been fourteen rooms—now there were twenty. No less could suffice for the master of the estate and his cherished granddaughter.

There was the patio with its flowering garden and leaping fountain. About it were the rooms, all on the ground floor with the exception of the three rooms added by the old man for the use of la senorita.

Here at the southeastern exposure of the rambling dwelling, a wide and winding staircase had been constructed to lead upward to a spacious landing.

Then came broad doors, a deep window, and beyond the senorita's private sitting room. Her bedroom was high-ceilinged, with much ornate embellishment after the Moorish fashion, and a lavish display of gilt under the domed roof.

Upon the landing a couch where each night Pedro lay across his mistress' doorway.

And then the balcony.

Teresa must pick up her skirts daintily to step out through the deep windows to it from her bedroom, and once there she was all but lost behind the bank of flowering roses, swayed by a dim dusk through which the moon had difficulty in filtering, lapped in the perfume of the flowers which hung about the balcony in the warm June night.

And from here, while her scholarly grandfather, antedated his remarks concerning the hated Americano, Teresa leaned out, her beauty as soft and delicate a thing as that of the rose brushing her cheek, and talked with one particular Americano.

"Make me some pretty speeches, Senor Billy," she laughed softly. "They float up to me here through the moonlight like the perfume from red roses!" She had drawn her mantilla closely about her for no other reason in the world but to tantalize the man below her by hiding herself from him, and there was only her voice and the vague outline of her young body through the vines to tell him that she was there.

But to her face, uplifted in the moonlight, flushed and eager, was unhidden.

"You are a flirt!" he cried, seeking to make his voice savage and angry, and succeeding admirably in filling it with adoration.

"But no," she answered him from the dusk about her. "That is to be cruel. And I am so soft-hearted that to make one suffer would distress me."

"If you roll your r's at me like that again," Stanway told her very positively, "I am going right in and tell the old gentleman that I am going to marry you!"

She laughed gayly at his impetuous declaration.

"It would be like a play," she said after a little as though she were thinking seriously of what he had said he would do. "It would interest me to see. Papa grande would be very polite and would ask Senor Billy to have a glass of wine and a cigar."

"And then?" the laughter welling up again in the eyes he could not see, thrilling in the voice which dropped down to him—"he would call Pedro and old Juan to take you outside and shoot you with their guns!"

"And you find that funny?" demanded Stanway.

"Is it not? It is like the opera!"

"You are dying for an operatic scene?" His voice still rang with the eagerness within him, his hand was upon the vines which clambered about her balcony. "Let me climb up to you."

"You must not!" she cried quickly. And then, seeing that he hesitated, she added lightly, again settling herself comfortably upon her cushioned seat. "That would be only musical comedy. And I should have to go inside and shut my window and run downstairs to papa grande. And—ah!"

He could make out the gesture as she laid her fingers across her red lips, could see that she turned toward the open window behind her.

"Quien es?" she called carelessly.

"You must not!" she cried quickly.

And then, seeing that he hesitated, she added lightly, again settling herself comfortably upon her cushioned seat. "That would be only musical comedy. And I should have to go inside and shut my window and run downstairs to papa grande. And—ah!"

He could make out the gesture as she laid her fingers across her red lips, could see that she turned toward the open window behind her.

But unless your case is chronic Chasco-Vin along with regular habits will soon build you up and make you strong.

It works wonders for those who are weak and run-down from over-work and worry or just recovering from a long spell of sickness.

Chasco-Vin improves the appetite, increases the strength and vitality and what most everyone appreciates most of all, it brings back the old pep.

To get the best results from Chasco-Vin you should get at least eight hours sleep in each twenty-four hours.

The local agencies for Chasco-Vin are K. Roy Hartzel, Woolworth Building, and A. A. Clarke, No. 323 Pittsburg street.

"Your grandfather has already lost cattle to the raiders," he told her. "It is known all over this end of the state that he is his own banker—that he always has a large amount of gold and silver in the house."

"Some night he is going to be called upon for something more than just cows to feed the hungry rebels. And then—"

"Then I should be protected?" she murmured demurely. "I should be married to an American whose mighty nation is feared by the Mexicans? That is it, no? Bueno. Does Senor Stanway know my kinsman, Eduardo Ramon Torre? He is a Spaniard, of blue-blood old of Castle, senior. And he is a naturalized American citizen. He—"

"Is a d—d young puppy!" snapped Stanway irritably.

"With us," said Miss Teresa stiffly, "one does not swear in the presence of a lady. Nor does he insult her through her kinsmen."

"I beg pardon—honestly I do, Teresa," Stanway hastened to say. "But you shouldn't mention the young republican's name if you don't want me to swear, and you know it. Now I'm coming up—"

His hand was again among the vines seeking a hold somewhere and being mocked by the smooth adobe wall. Teresa de la Guerra, alarmed, was upon her feet protesting. And then: "Sh!" she called down to him. "It is papa grande. I heard him call. Another time, Senor Billy. Some other night—maybe tomorrow, who knows—and I shall steal out for a little walk with you. I must go now. Buenas noches, Senor Billy."

It was softly said, and there was the caress of the soft southern speech. "I am coming, too," he called up to her. And she knew that he meant what he said. "I shall come around to the patio and go to the front door. I am going to talk with your grandfather tonight, Teresa mine."

A laugh floated out and down to him, a rose fell, striking against his cheek; there was the glimmer and flutter of a mantilla among the vines, and the girl had stepped back through the window, closing it behind her.

She stood a moment, hesitant, her cheek a little pale. Then she thought that even now Stanway was on his way around the great house to the patio drove her in haste first to her mirror and the rearranging of her hair the rose vine had disturbed, then to a quick descent of the broad stairway to the main floor.

The utter stillness of the drawing room smote her as she entered. The candles were like shimmering ghosts. De la Guerra was not in the room. Immediately she was dimly conscious of an unreasonable sense of uneasiness, even before she had the vaguest reason for it.

And then the reason asserted itself. A chair lay overturned, a little way from the chair a rug was crumpled and thrown back, the ink bottle which had been upon the table lay upon the floor.

As her eyes saw, her brain understood.

And as she stared, before her voice had found its way to her lips, she heard a sharp knocking at the front door.

She ran to it swiftly, threw it wide and whispered fearfully:

"Senor Billy, I am frightened. Look!"

He looked the way her pointing finger went, a moment in frowning failure to comprehend, then in sudden black anger.

"You mean—" he cried sharply.

"Yes," she whispered, clinging to his arm. "A moment ago I heard him call out. I—I was talking with you and did not heed, but there was anger in his voice. I came down and—look, he is gone! There was a struggle—see the chair thrown down, the rug, the ink spilled there!"

Stanway left her side, striding abruptly to where the bottle lay.

There was a dark smear on the carpet near it. He leaned over it, stooping, seeing the candles reflected from the dark surface.

And his face, too, was very white as he straightened up, drawing a deep breath between his teeth.

He managed to stand between the girl and the dark smear.

"Get Pedro," he commanded sharply. "Have him call the servants, the vaqueros, every man of them. Have them come armed!"

The girl turned and ran swiftly through the great rooms, down the long hallway to do his bidding, a sharp fear clutching her heart. Stanway, when she had gone, stepped quickly across the room, snatched up a rug there and threw it down upon the carpet, covering the dark spot near the bottle.

Then he stood still, waiting. As he waited there came to him from the silence without a faint drumming sound, the noise of horses' hoofs in a mad tattoo of flight through the night.

"The rebels," he muttered angrily. "They are taking what is left of him back across the border."

He ran to the window. The curtain there was torn. Moonlight and candle light showed him where wood and plaster were scratched as in a hurried exit.

Then Teresa had come back to him, her great eyes wide with alarm, and the servants were already trooping in, sleepy-eyed and mystified.

CHAPTER III.

Eduardo Ramon Torre. Their master was not here; their young mistress' eyes were turned with interest upon the young American owner of the Painted Rock range, and so the servants, each of them, turned to Stanway expectantly.

Stanway waited in silence a moment until a new set of faces in the doorway, darker, sun-kissed, bearded faces, told him that the vaqueros had risen to Pedro's clamorous call.

Then he spoke to them all, swiftly, with rising emphasis, calling upon them by name, addressing them in mixed Spanish and English, taking the word which came first to him that they would grasp.

"Gaucho," he called as a very tall, slow, Arab-looking man pushed his way through the cluttered door. "These vaqueros have work to do tonight. Are they all here—todas?"

"No, senor," he answered simply.

"Los otros comen muy quick."

"Listen, then, while they come," ran on Stanway. "It is the Mexicans, I think, who have taken your master. There was the noise of caballos running back toward the border. They are not ten minutes ahead. How many? Quiet, sabe, Gaucho! Probably just a band of riders, not many. How many men, with rifles, can you get to horse pronto?"

"Twenty-five," replied Gaucho promptly.

"Good," cried Stanway. "Take twenty men with you; send the other five to the house. Pronto, Gaucho." Gaucho turned and ran, calling to his vaqueros as he went.

"Pedro," called Stanway to the chief of the house servants.

"Aqui, senor."

"Have the doors and windows shut, the shutters locked. When Gaucho sends the five men, put one of them upon the senorita's balcony, the others at the windows, especially the south windows, Pedro. Then put out all the candles and be silent, all of you."

"No one goes to bed again tonight. Each one, man and woman, find a gun of some sort. I do not think that there is danger, but remember that the border is just there, remember that they have taken the good senor from you, remember that we are leaving the senorita in your protection."

He spoke swiftly and turned to follow Gaucho out into the dark. Teresa, who had been watching him in silence, came to him and put her hand upon his arm.

"Senor Billy," she whispered, "You are going with Gaucho and the rest?"

"Yes," he answered shortly. "You are safe here; they do not dare an open attack in United States territory. And no doubt we shall be back before morning."

PIRATE BALL TEAM BEST PITTSBURGH HAS SPORTED FOR YEARS

Seadeck's Buccaneers Coming Home Thursday For Memorial Day Series.

HEAVY SLUGGERS IN LINE

Expectation is That by That Time the Club Will Be Up to Best Form of the Season; Cincinnati Reds Will Be Opponents for the Four Games.

After completing the first swing around the eastern end of the National league circuit, the Pittsburgh baseball club will return to the home grounds, Forbes Field, Thursday May 28, for the annual Decoration Day series. The Cincinnati Reds will be the opponents of the Pirates and four games will be staged during the holiday series, the game of May 28 being followed by morning and afternoon contests on May 30, Decoration Day, and the wind-up of the series coming Saturday, May 31.

The consensus of opinion in (around) is that Pittsburgh is sporting the best ball club of recent years and is sure to cut a wide swath in the pennant race ere the summer slips by. It is expected that the Pirates will be able to show their full strength for the first time this season during the coming holiday series. While the club has been playing high class ball to date, the return of several of its stars to active duty after illness and injury, will add greatly to the strength of the team. Billy Southworth, the clever outfielder, who led the league in batting last season but who has been laid up with a slight nervous disorder for the past couple of weeks, will be back at his post and with his outfield side-kicks, Carey and Stengel, will be ready to take his turn on the lot, as has been his habit since joining the Pirate crew. Pitcher Erv Weaver, who injured his pitching hand during the opening game in Pittsburgh, will also be ready to take his turn on the mound should he be called upon. Pitcher Carlson, who has been in the service in France, is back on the job taking the regular turn with the Pirate hurlers. With the Pirates thus able to show their full strength, the Cincinnati boys are going to have a man-sized job on their hands to cope with Manager Bezdek's tossers.

No more classy card could be offered the Western Pennsylvania fans for a holiday attraction than the Cincinnati bunch, for the Reds have been playing some of the best ball of the season.

Following the Decoration Day series, the Pirates go west for a few games, returning to Forbes Field on June 5 for a long stay at home during which all of the eastern clubs will be met, the New York Giants being the first.

As usual the Pittsburgh club is selling tickets for the Decoration Day games by mail.

SAYS HER FATHER HAD TO QUIT HIS WORK ALTOGETHER

Mrs. Irene Loomis, No. 747 Reeddale Street, Tells How Her Father Suffered.

Nothing in recent years has aroused so much favorable comment in Pittsburgh as the introduction of the famous herbal preparation, Plant Juice. Reports from other cities cite many instances where remarkably quick relief has followed the use of this remedy, and are being substantiated daily by local people in signed statements.

Recently the following testimonial was received from Mrs. Irene Loomis, who resides at No. 747 Reeddale street, N. E., Pittsburgh, and has a large circle of friends in this city. She tells how her father, Mr. James J. Duffy, a well-known resident of Pittsburgh, was relieved of a bad case of stomach trouble by Plant Juice. She said:

"For the past five years my father had been troubled with a chronic bronchial ailment and had gotten so weak that he had to give up his work altogether. He could not get any sleep at night, had no appetite and was terribly run down. He had tried many different medicines and had been under treatment for relief until he began to take Plant Juice. That seemed to be just the medicine that he needed, for it toned his entire system up, he is now able to sleep at night, has a good appetite and is able to return to his work again. He is feeling the best he has in years and is glad to give his public endorsement for Plant Juice. We will always keep Plant Juice in the house as it is a fine medicine."

Plant Juice is sold in Connelville at Roy Hetzel's Drug Store.—Adv.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits over time.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork.

By worry, idleness, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest, excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary, in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardices, are due to a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind, vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery, to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance, to be not only a man but as men now go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-ferrin every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made for this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before, if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-ferrin is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.
